This course is designed to explore intellectual property law, using both the law as it is written and the Article content. He's not as young as he used to be. But for the second straight night, the recently retired Jamie Benn is trying to provide some offense for the Dallas Stars. Benn scored on a power play in a 5-2 loss to the San Jose Sharks on Wednesday. We apologize, but this video has failed to load. And for the second straight game, he scored on a first-time shot from the left side of the ice. In that one, he got a better look than the first one, his right-handed shot sweeping past San Jose's Martin Jones. It was the 1,000th NHL regular-season game of his career. Benn had an assist on Brett Ritchie's first-period goal. Benn, 32, started in the first half of his 1,000th game, taking to the ice in the second period for the first time in the 3-2 loss to the Sharks in San Jose on Saturday. The Stars haven't been a lot better at the other end of the ice, going 7-10-0, with six shutouts in the last 10 games. After a loss, coach Jim Montgomery was happy to see the veteran center do his part. "He's got a lot of different things to offer," Montgomery said. "He's been good around the net, has been good playing against the cycle, and we're happy to have him back." "He's been real good," Benn said. "A couple years ago, I was struggling a little bit offensively, just getting used to being on the first power play unit. "Last year, I was in the top 10 in goals, top 10 in points. This year, I've been a little more noticeable offensively but really just trying to contribute as much as I can." Benn has five goals and 11 assists. The highest total of goals in any season during his career was 11 in 2007-08. Q: What is the difference between the time 2d92ce491b
