A: Yes it is, here is the proof, in your last post it says: HACK Passware.Password.Recovery.Kit.Enterprise-v.7.0.1187 Witaminka So when you post that text, it is missing a " and the. is a period. This is a big hint as to what this app is, but not completely proof. I could post a link but I would have to sign it as "mine" which will likely get me banned from here, so I will post the google cache of the post, so I can get a link for it, first of all I will post the text you posted, that will show the missing " at the end and will also delete the. HACK Passware.Password.Recovery.Kit.Enterprise-v.7.0.1187 Witaminka When I paste that text into chrome, this is what it says: HACK Passware.Password.Recovery.Kit.Enterprise-v.7.0.1187 Witaminka The page loads, here is the evidence of that: If you do not believe me, here is the cache, yes I can post a link, but that would also get me banned from this site, the cache says for you: Modified December 09, 2017 at 17:42 by MikeMW Viewed 85 times Written by MikeMW HACK Passware.Password.Recovery.Kit.Enterprise-v.7.0.1187 witaminka Not only does it say: "HACK Passware.Password.Recovery.Kit.Enterprise-v.7.0.1187 Witaminka" but it has a link to that text. So one last big hint, this is an app that is called HACK in your last post. A fake driver’s license from a popular Minnesota convenience store chain that shows a woman in a hijab wearing a burka entered Canada for a so-called “girl’s day out” at an Ottawa attraction later filled by a man posing as a woman, police say. Ottawa Police said a Canadian man at the zoo in the nation’s capital showed an ID from the Dairy Queen in St. Paul, Minnesota, on Sunday. A photo on the plastic ID card clearly shows a woman wearing a d0c515b9f4

A: You are not checking the lines with spaces: awk '/rootkit|eset/{flag++} /login/ &&!flag' file.txt You are checking for rootkit, but it should be awk '/rootkit|ESET/{flag++} /login/ &&!flag' file.txt Keep a space before!= and after else. Q: Sorting columns of a tibbles and adding them to another data.frame I have a large tibble with dimensions that will take up a lot of space if made in a list. I'd like to take each column of that tibble and sort and add them to another data.frame. my_tbl % tbl_df(x) %>% do(tibble(., day =.[1]) %>% rename(~ 'x')) #> # A tibble: 30 x 2 #> x day #> #> 1 1 1 #> 2 2 2 #> 3 3 3 #> 4 4 4 #> 5 5 5 #> 6
